

SSEHV DYNAMIC PARENTING PROGRAM

Human Value	Qualities Parents wish their Child to have
TRUTH	The child is self-aware, in touch with his feelings, thoughts and values. He is truthful, honest, possesses integrity, and a sense of fair-play and justice. He is connected to his family and with a network of friends and relatives. He is aware of his cultural traditions and religious heritage. The child knows his own truth, is self-aware and capable of managing his mental life.
RIGHT CONDUCT	The child is competent, striving, committed and hard working. He is capable and responsible for himself and his choices. He is disciplined in all his undertakings. The child is capable of managing all his actions in accordance with dharma (moral and social codes).
PEACE	The child is happy, peaceful, free of anxiety, tension, stress and fear. He possesses skills of negotiation and problem-solving. He is capable of generating and maintaining peace within the family and a circle of friends. The child is capable of managing his emotional life.
LOVE	The child is loving, kind, considerate, gentle, compassionate, generous, understanding and dedicated. He knows how to generate and multiply his inner wellspring of love, joy and harmony. The child is capable of managing his personal and social life.
NON-VIOLENCE	The child is self-restrained, balanced, does not violate himself or others through thought, speech or action. He is aware of himself and of the environment and the need to relate to the whole of creation. He has an appreciation of arts, aesthetics and beauty. He is clear about his purpose in life. He views the world as an expression of God. The child is capable of managing his spiritual life.

Source: Dynamic Parenting- Pal Dhall and Tehseen Dhall

SIEWI- Virtual Parenting Program 2021